Is there a way to deactivate my account while I am away?

Donia - 2020-07-29 - Account

Absolutely!

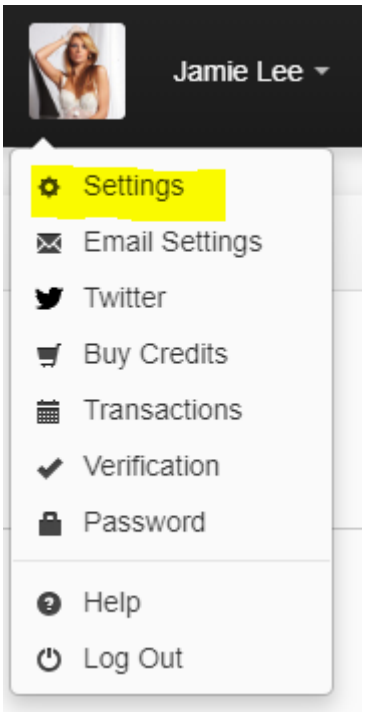

"Hiding" your profile is free and allows you to “pause” your Slixa presence while taking a temporary break or vacation. Your account will still be active so you can log in, make changes, and when you’re ready, you can resume it to pick up exactly where you left off.

Hiding your profile will replace your current profile page with a generic avatar image and the message “This user’s Slixa profile is currently inactive”. Your ads will be paused along with your profile, and you will not be charged for renewals or upgrades.

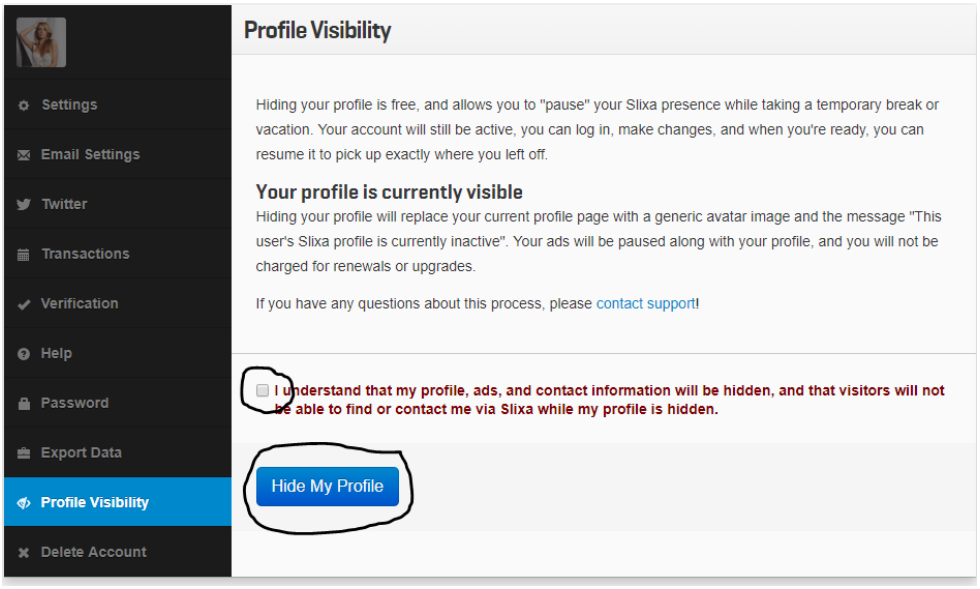

To hide your profile, login at the link below:

https://e.slixa.com/account/hide

Or, if you are already logged in, just click the "Settings" option in the drop down menu in the upper right corner of the screen:

Next, click the "Profile Visibility" option, then tick the box, and click "Hide My Profile":

Settings
Email Settings
Twitter
Transactions
Verification
Help
Password
Export Data
Profile Visibility
Delete Account
Profile Visibility
Hiding your profile is free, and allows you to "pause" your Slixa presence while taking a temporary break or vacation. Your account will still be active, you can log in, make changes, and when you're ready, you can resume it to pick up exactly where you left off.
Your profile is currently visible
Hiding your profile will replace your current profile page with a generic avatar image and the message "This user's Slixa profile is currently inactive". Your ads will be paused along with your profile, and you will not be charged for renewals or upgrades.
If you have any questions about this process, please contact support!
I understand that my profile, ads, and contact information will be hidden, and that visitors will not be able to find or contact me via Slixa while my profile is hidden.
Hide My Profile